That's how much Howard Schultz, the CEO of Starbucks makes while Starbucks workers get an average of less than $9 an hour! And that's not all. Asked about a $15/hr minimum wage, Schultz stoked fears about job losses at small businesses who he claimed "would not be able to afford it," while admitting that Starbucks could pay $15.

Ok, Howard, then stop hiding behind small businesses and pay Starbucks workers 15 now!

Schultz opposes a real $15/hr minimum wage and wants to undermine it with something called "total compensation." But we can't allow Schultz and big business to count everything from your tips to your bus pass against your wages! We say, "No to total compensation and tip credit! A real $15 minimum wage for all workers!"
